Macro files are simply text files that contain a small piece of code in them. This particular piece of code is then interpreted whenever the file is opened. This has a wide variety of applications including the ability to make your work much easier and much faster. The application used to create these files is called MacroDroid and it can be downloaded from the Android Market place for free. Keyboarado Description: Keyboardardd is a Java based keyboard macro utility. It provides an easy to use scripting language for defining keyboard macros. The program can also save your macro in the form of an xml file that can be replayed later. This program allows you to change the keyboard mapping of your keyboard. Keyboard macros can be used to map a particular keyboard key to any other key. You can use macros to solve problems like typing in special characters (upper or lower case), emojis, typing specific sequences of keystrokes or many other keyboard related problems. Keyboard macros are also useful if you are looking to create shortcuts for yourself in order to reduce the time it takes to complete a task. One interesting aspect of this application is the ability to control the position of where the keyboard cursor would move when a macro is activated. Keyboardardd has a custom Key binding editor that allows you to create your own mapping and save it to a file in the preferences. Keyboardardd is an open source application that supports Java 1.6 and above. It is available for free. Features: *Create and import keyboard macros from an xml file *Ability to assign keyboard macros to particular key *Ability to remove particular key from macros *Replay previous macros as a set of keystrokes *Save macros in xml file *Easily export keyboard mapping *Open Keybinding Editor to assign macros *Ability to control keyboard cursor position *Reminder *Works with android Keyboardardd Description: Keyboardardd is a Java based keyboard macro utility.
